Product Specific Risk

You are exposed to Equity Risk

The value of the Underlying Fund that invests in equity and equity-related securities will be affected by economic, political, market, and issuer specific changes. Such changes may adversely affect securities, regardless of company specific performance.

You are exposed to Concentration Risk

The Underlying Fund invests in a single country market (China) and is likely to be more volatile than a more widely invested fund. Lack of liquidity may adversely affect the value or ease of disposal of assets.

You are exposed to Emerging Markets (including China) Risk

The Underlying Fund invests in Chinese equities and equity-related securities thereby providing exposure to emerging markets, in particular China, which tend to be more volatile than mature markets and the value of your investment could move sharply up or down. In some circumstances, the underlying investments may become illiquid which may constrain the Underlying Investment Manager's ability to realise some or all of the portfolio. The registration and settlement arrangements in emerging markets may be less developed than in more mature markets so the operational risks of investing are higher. Political risks and adverse economic circumstances are more likely to arise, putting the value of your investment at risk.

Under the prevailing regulations in China, foreign investors can only invest in RQFII Eligible Securities through institutions that have obtained RQFII status in China. The current RQFII Regulations impose strict restrictions (such as investment guidelines) on RQFII Eligible Securities investment. A Fund itself is not a RQFII, but a Fund may invest directly in RQFII Eligible Securities via the Investment Adviser's RQFII quota granted under the RQFII Regulations.

You are exposed to Exchange Rates Risk

The Underlying Fund may invest in securities denominated in a number of different currencies other than the base currency in which the Underlying Fund is denominated. Changes in foreign currency exchange rates may adversely affect the value of the Underlying Fund's investments and the income thereon.
